

MAC 1

(ALL PICS ARE FROM ACTUAL PHENO)

- TYPE: Indica Dominant
- GENETICS: Alien Cookies x (Colombian x Starfighter)
- THC %: 20% – 24.99%
- FLOWERING TIME: 9 weeks
- YIELD: Moderate
- DIFFICULTY: Intermediate
- SCENT: Diesel, Spicy, Pungent
- FLAVOR: Gas and sweet
- EFFECTS: Immediate and long lasting. Euphoric and relaxing.

FROM WIKILEAF:

Anyone who has experienced the beauty of the MAC strain will be pleased to know that Capulator's genetics are still going strong. Some say that MAC 1 is a backcross of her original namesake while others claim that MAC, also known as Miracle Alien Cookies, was crossed with Starfighter and a Columbian landrace.

To be honest, we're not so concerned about how she got here, because what really matters is just how amazing her effects are said to be.

MAC 1 comes in a bit stronger than her predecessor with a high of 23% THC that reportedly packs a huge punch. Rumor has it that some dispensaries even stock their shelves with varieties that reach into the 30% range.

Nugs are incredibly dense and so thickly covered with trichomes that you can barely see her green and purple hues beneath. Both flavors and aromas here aren't for the faint of heart, as MAC 1 comes through with a strong sour diesel note that's accented by citrus and spicy herbs.

If you've smoked MAC before, just imagine MAC 1 as her new and improved version. Users note that this strain offers a strong one-two punch of both cerebral and physical effects, making her ideal for a late afternoon or early evening smoke session.

Initially, many describe their experience as one that's intensely euphoric, as just a few tokes are said to bring people to the happiest mental state they've experienced in a long time.

For some, creativity and focus might flourish for a short while before her indica side inevitably kicks in. Depending on your tolerance, you might feel physically relaxed with MAC 1 or you could end up glued to the couch before falling asleep.