

ZOOKIES

(ALL PICTURES ARE FROM ACTUAL PHENO)

- 50/50 Hybrid
- INDOOR/OUTDOOR (9 WEEKS/EARLY OCTOBER)
- THC: 26%
- 6-8 ft. tall
- Genetics: Animal Cookies x Gorilla Glue #4
- Great For: Pain Relief, Cramps, Insomnia, Muscle Spasms, Stress

THE NET:

What is Zookies?

The Zookies strain, sometimes referred to as the Zoo Cookies strain, is a hybrids that often produces THC levels as high as 30% and creates a high that reduces pain, helps moderate feelings of depression and fatigue and increases energy, according to reviewers.

What does Zookies mean?

Zookies derives its name from a delicious scent similar to nutty cookies.

What does Zookies smell like?

The scent of the Zookies strain is similar to nutty cookies with hints of chocolate, coffee, pepper, or diesel.

What does Zookies taste like?

Zookies tastes, to many, like cookies baked with nuts with hints of coffee, chocolate or pepper and diesel. Its flavor is less pronounced than the scent.

What colors does Zookies have?

Zookies shows varying shades of light and deep greens along with hues of dark blues interlaced with a light coat of trichomes.

What effects does Zookies have?

Some that have tried this strain have said they like it for its ability to reduce pain throughout the body, be it in the joints or the muscles. Reviewers have used this strain to moderate feelings of depression and fatigue, making it a strain that can possibly increase energy for some consumers. Some women have even used Zookies to help calm menstrual cramps.

Where does Zookies come from?

Zookies receives its genetics from crossing Chocolate Diesel, Chem Sis, and Sour dub.

Is Zookies an indica, sativa or hybrid strain?

This strain is a well-balanced hybrid strain that often produces mind and body effects according to reviewers.

FROM WIKILEAF:

Fans of the Glue family should include Zookies on their must-try list as soon as possible because between her great flavors and powerful effects, you'll feel as if you hit the cannabis lottery. Crafted by Alien Labs in California, she's an evenly balanced hybrid that hails from a cross between Animal Cookies and Original Glue (also known as Gorilla Glue #4).

Lightweight smokers need not apply here, as Zookies tends to be rather powerful with a high of 25% THC. Nugs are quite dense and very dark with purple and green tones, thin orange pistils, and an incredibly thick coating of white crystals that sparkle and shine. Flavors and aromas are nuanced, to say the least, with a blend of tropical fruit, cookies, pepper, and diesel - she's one of those gals that you either love or hate.

Rather than getting some items crossed off of your to-do list while you wait for Zookies to kick in, you can expect that her high will potentially blast you into space right away. Most describe her effects as extremely cerebral at first, offering a joyous calm that makes it hard to focus. As you begin to feel this strain work its way through your body, you'll likely encounter a state of couchlock that will vary in intensity depending on your tolerance. Those who are new to cannabis will probably fall asleep right away.

Since you're going to be hanging out in your living room for the night anyway, you might as well take advantage of the therapeutic benefits that Zookies has been said to offer. Physical pain of nearly all types, including migraines, women's health issues, and inflammation from arthritis could potentially be soothed with ease, leaving you feeling incredible before bed. If you tend to get anxious or feel depressed, let this strain to try to boost your mood as well. Those who are in need of a good night of sleep should smoke Zookies before turning in and see how she can help with insomnia.

Alien Labs is a fantastic cultivation operation, and while they focus on small batches of flower that are grown with love and care, they don't tend to make their seeds available to the general public. They note that their seeds come from breeders across California, so finding some for sale online is highly unlikely.

Nonetheless, if you live in the Sunshine State, keep your eyes open for Zookies at your local dispensary. We'd recommend that you only try this bud when you have zero plans in front of you, even if you're a very experienced user. From what others have reported, this strain will knock you down and you'll likely want to stay there for a while.